PREFACE.

The Fisk Free and Public Library is the outcome of the union of two previously existing libraries in New Orleans—the Public School or Lyceum Library formerly in the City Hall, which circulated its volumes only among life members and teachers in the Public Schools, and the Fisk Free Library which under the management successively of the Mechanics Institute, the Louisiana University, and the Tulane University, was kept in the building occupied by these institutions on Dryades street and allowed books to circulate among students only. In the month of February, 1895, the City Council took steps to provide a building for the reception of these two libraries—the Court building on Lafayette Square was selected for this purpose, and the libraries were given over to the entire control of the city in 1896. The newly appointed library board met for the first time in December, 1896, transacted the necessary business for the equipment and organization of the library. The reading room of the new library was opened to the public January 18, 1897, Mr. William Beer became librarian.

The earlier librarians so far as can be ascertained were as follows:

Public School and Lyceum Library—T. McConnell, R. C. Kerr, J. V. Calhoun, C. A. Ducros, Miss M. Cooper Mr. C. Davisson, and Mrs. M. C. Culbertson, who held the position for twenty-five years.

Of the Fisk Library—Prof. Holmes, E. W. Perry, Mr. Finney, C. B. Stafford, C. G. Gill and Miss Minnie Bell.

The fund for organization, equipment and support of the Fisk Free and Public Library for 1896 was $17,000; this included the interest and unexpended balance from the Fisk endowment of $2,000. The present income of the library is derived from the Fisk endowment, the rental of stores on the ground floor of the library building, which also provides free accommodations for one of the City Courts and the School Board, and an annual appropriation the amount of which is determined by the City Council. This appropriation was $1,500 the first year, $7,000 the second year and $8,500 for each of the years 1889 and 1900. It is hoped, however, that the annual appropriation will increase yearly as the library demonstrates its value to the city.

The number of volumes received from the two libraries was about 28,000, each library contributing about one-half of this number. This includes a duplicate set of 3,000 public documents and many volumes practically worn out. Of fiction only about 250 volumes were available.

It is the intention of the library to circulate practically all of its volumes. Bound periodicals and those over two months old are allowed to circulate, and valuable works may be drawn by making a deposit.

This liberality in circulation is made possible because of the fine collection of the Howard Library, the rules of which do not permit the withdrawal of any of its volumes.

The number of card holders up to date is 7,000. As soon as funds permit, there will be provided a well equipped children's room on the ground floor of the library building.

The number of cards issued montly is 400, and the average monthly circulation, (only one book on a card), is 8000 volumes for home use and 500 volumes for library use. The highest daily circulation on record is 504. The library is open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. week days and on Sundays from 1 to 6 p. m. for reading room use only. The staff consists of the librarian, assistant librarian and six assistants, and two porters.

The library at present occupies the second floor of the building appropriated by the city for its use, formerly known as St. Patrick's Hall. The hall has a floor space of 80 by 180 feet. The entrance doors to the library are in the centre of the south side of the room; in the west side are the school board offices and on the southeast is a room of 1,200 square feet area, used as a reading room for ladies and children. In the center of the north side of the hall directly opposite the entrance door, a large stairway ascends to a gallery which surrounds the hall on three sides, having an area of 1,200 square feet.

The natural lighting of the room is unexcelled, there being large windows on its four sides; those on the north side of the room thirteen in number and five feet wide, extend from the top of the gallery to the floor of the hall below; those on the remaining three sides of the room are high windows occupying about one-third of the height of the room. Electric light is used, and in a very economical way, the average cost per month being only $72.00 for 112 burners.

The planning of the main floor space for the various departments of the library is as follows: In the northwest corner of the room 6,500 square feet are separated by a low railing and form the book room, allowing ample space also for the work of the staff. The librarian's desk is in front of one of the broad north windows within this enclosure. At the southwest corner of this improvised book room at the point nearest the entrance doors, and therefore readily accessible to the public, is found the loan desk, which forms a right angle and commands a view of the entire room, its total length is 28 feet. At the left of the loan desk is a case in which a selection of new books is displayed, thus affording the public a welcome opportunity of making a selection by sight rather than from a printed list. Between the south railing of the book room and the south wall of the hall is a large space furnished with tables and used by the public for consulting, finding lists and preparing call slips. The remainder of the room which lies westward from the loan desk is used as a reference and periodical room. Here are found modern library equipments; oak reading tables with reading lamps; rubber socket chairs, as the floor is bare save for strips of matting ; a case of well selected reference books ; five newspaper reading desks and four periodical racks. There is at present a seating capacity of over 250 with plenty of room for additional tables and chairs when necessary.

On the walls are suitable pictures, notices regarding the use of the library, and a bulletin board near the entrance doors, on which maps of territories of present interest, list of books on particular subjects, and any material of interest to the public, are posted. There is also a large bulletin board in the entrance hall, on which may be found the daily weather forecasts, departure of foreign mails, and similar information.

The ladies' and children's reading room, of which mention has been made, contains seven reading tables, seating twenty-eight readers, and a periodical rack in which are placed special educational periodicals for the use of teachers, and also a number of children's periodicals. The walls of this room are used for art exhibitions under the auspices of the different artistic societies of the city.

One of the important functions of a public library is to co-operate with the educational forces of the community, and this the Fisk Library aims to do as it has opportunity. As soon as funds are available, the spacious gallery will be used for special study rooms for the use of teachers and pupils, generous loans of books will be made to the schools. The library will also make its books more accessible to the general public by establishing delivery stations in different portions of the city.

The following are the official documents connected with the establishment of the library.

Messages and Ordinances Relating to the Fisk Free and Public Library.

JANUARY 9, 1895.

Official Proceedings. Mayor's Message.

I recommend that the building formerly occupied by the Criminal District Court be devoted to the use of a public library wherein both the library at the City Hall and the Fisk Library, now in charge of the Administrators of the Tulane Educational Fund, and which, owing to their removal to new quarters, will have to be changed from its present location, could be concentrated and our citizens be given the benefit of a great free library, a long felt public want.

I submit that the necessary alterations to the building can be made with but slight expenditures, and I would ask your serious consideration of the subject.

Respectfully,

FEBRUARY 2, 1894.

Ordinance No. 10,254, C. S.

AN ORDINANCE dedicating for the use as a Public Library the building formerly occupied by the Criminal District Court.

In the classified Finding List which follows, an attempt has been made to furnish a rough guide to what are practically three collections of books—that of the Lyceum Library which has for its most valuable element a large number of standard works acquired in its early career, that is from 1845 to 1860; of the Fisk Free Library, of which the most valuable part consists of books added during its management by the Louisiana University and Tulane University—at which time its purchases were largely dictated by the wants of the professors, and of the purchases of the present administration. The later classifications include most of the additions to date.

The conditions surrounding the preparation and printing of the catalogue have been unfavorable to the compilation of an absolutely complete or correct catalogue. The best possible has been done. In the near future the work of completing the library will be undertaken by adding to each classification the necessary books. As soon as funds permit, subject catalogues will be issued.

"THEY COME AND GO LIKE CLOUDS UPON A SUMMER SKY."

The Advantage of Permanency.

Since the SINGER sewing-machine was first invented, more than four hundred different makes of sewing-machine have come and gone. Now it is a well known fact that sewing-machines wear out in parts; if such parts cannot be duplicated, the whole machine is no longer of any value to its owner.

All SINGER parts are absolutely interchangeable. Exact duplicates of each and every part are always and instantly obtainable at SINGER salesrooms in every city in the World; this makes the SINGER everlasting.

WHAT A CONTRAST WITH THE ANONYMOUS MACHINES SOLD BY IRRESPONSIBLE DEALERS.

Many a woman has experienced the annoying loss of some small part from one of these machines and has then found that the dealer had no duplicate or that the manufacturers had gone out of business and she must get out of her dilemma as best she could.

HALF-A-CENTURY'S PRODUCT.

During the last half-century nearly Seventeen Million SINGER Sewing-Machines have been made and sold. This tremendous product would make one gigantic machine head that would reach from the SINGER factory at Elizabeth, N. J., to the factory at Kilbowie, Scotland. Its base would be about three thousand miles long and twelve hundred miles wide. The top of its needle-bar would be fifteen hundred miles above the earth.
